

Reenascreena gets free web hosting

Contributed by Calvin Jones
Tuesday, 12 July 2005

Reenascreena has successfully applied for free webhosting with hosting provider Byethost. This free hosting account has allowed us to migrate to a new site using a dynamic content management system.

In short, that means that adding and maintaining content on the site is much easier, and we can add more interactive features than we would be able to on the old static site. Because the hosting is free you will see a row of text advertising links along the top of the page -- please note that these are posted by the hosting company and are in no way affiliated to or endorsed by the Reenascreena Community Action Group.

Look out for regular updates to the site over the coming months -- or register an account and we'll keep you up-to-date with developments.